

Lafayette

Enchanté, je suis Lafayette. Do take a close look at me, for you may notice your own reflection. That's because I love to remind you to self-reflect once in a while, since I feel this is the only way for you to shine your brightest, live your happiest and be the you-est. With my Victorian band, I also want to remind you to search for the things that make you feel something I like to refer to as 'toddler happy': that crazy happy state of mind that was so familiar to us when we were little (you know, holding our cotton candy at the state carnival, surrounded by magical lights, feeling like anything could happen at any moment).

My go-to quote: "You always shine your brightest when you do something personal, something intimately important that defines you."
